7.30pm	International Investing: There is much more to it than FANG and China Stephen Arnold
Australian investors tend to have a bias when investing internationally to the popular favourites Facebook, Amazon and Apple and miss out on some of the best businesses that are not household names. In addition, investing internationally offers valuable diversification and potential downside protection in more volatile markets.
Stephen Arnold: Founder Aoris Investment Management Stephen has been investing in offshore markets for 25 years, making him one of Australia's most experienced international investors. Before founding Aoris Investment Management in 2017 Stephen was Head of International Equities at Evans & Partners. He directly managed $1bn of client assets and over six and a half years to June 2017 generated investment returns that were in the top decile of a broad peer group of international funds. Stephen spent a decade in London, most of which was with Goldman Sachs Asset Management where he held a senior role in a small team managing a ~$5bn concentrated global equity portfolio. Stephen was at Platinum Asset Management early 1994 to late 1997 covering US equities. Stephen holds a Bachelor of Business from UTS, and is a CFA Charterholder.
