

TUESDAY 3RD MARCH

INVESTING IN INFRASTRUCTURE

Emma Cook, Magellan Group

Investing in infrastructure is about investing in the companies that provide essential services to society. We are so used to these services in our lives that perhaps we underestimate the range of essential services that are provided the world over, every minute of every day.

Magellan believes that infrastructure assets, with requisite earnings reliability and a linkage of earnings to inflation, offer an attractive, long-term investment proposition.

Emma Cook, Key Account Manager Magellan Group

Emma Cook joined Magellan in October 2008.

Prior to Magellan, Emma spent more than four years working in business development and investment research at Colonial First State.

Emma has a double degree in Economics and Languages from the University of Western Australia, and is CIMA (Certified Investment Management Analyst®) qualified.
